TERMS OF THE POST.

THE BOSTON POST is published every morning, at No. 21, Water Street, Boston, by CHARLES G. GREENE, at four dollars per annum, payable in advance; four dollars and fifty cents, if paid within six months, or five dollars at the end of the year. These conditions will be rigidly adhered to.

MISCELLANEOUS.

London and Parisian Fashions.—Satin was never more generally worn than at the present moment. For morning costume, nothing is more elegant than a dress of plain dark-colored satin, made high, with a velvet mantlelet of the same color as the dress, or black lined with satin, and trimmed with lace or fringe.

For evening, in petite toilette, dresses of light-colored silk, or satin, are made high, with long wide sleeves. Pink, blue, maize, or pale green satin, either figured or plain, are extremely rich and elegant. But the stout rich satins, figured in various colors, are truly magnificent. They form folds as large and massy as those of velvet, and at the same time, perfectly soUPLE, and void of stiffness. There are also some beautiful satins, for evening dress, consisting of pink or blue grounds figured with white. These are trimmed with blonde, or a pattern corresponding with the design of the dress.

For evening full dress, robes of embroidered tulle or crape, are very generally worn. Sometimes the pattern consists of a serpe of rose-buds and foliage, while at the top of the hem there is a wreath of roses, or some light running pattern. This embroidery may be either of white, or colored silk on white crape, or of colored silk on crape or tulle, of a corresponding color.

We have observed some beautiful scarfs of black tulle, worked in delicate patterns in black silk. Scarfs of black satin, embroidered in black silks, are much worn in demi-toilette. Those of pink, blue, or cerise satin, embroidered in black, are preferred for full dress.

Though reticules are, strictly speaking, exploded from full dress, yet some, which have recently made their appearance, are so extremely elegant, that we are induced to notice them. They are made of velvet or cashmere, and closed by a richly worked gilt snap. On each side hangs a long tassel set with bijouterie, and suspended by chains.

The most fashionable hats of the present season, are composed of a single color. Certain combinations of color, which were recently approved, are now regarded as mauvais gout; for example, cerise or maize-colored ribbons on black hats. The most genteel colors for trimming black velvet hats, are pink, green, blue, or orange. For neglige hats, nothing is more appropriate than black velvet, with a demi-veil of black lace.

Turbans, which are now very generally adopted in evening dress, are frequently composed of black or white blonde, lined with satin. The most elegant are of black, lined with pink or orange. Those which are made on the head at the time of dressing, are more light and elegant than those made on a frame. The grand art in making a turban is to avoid stiffness and uniformity in the folds.

Mantelets of velvet are now more general than those of satin. They are for the most part black, and lined with colored satin or silk. These mantelets are made with long ends in front, and falling collars. They are trimmed with black lace or blonde.

We lately saw a beautiful evening dress, composed of maroon-colored satin, sprigged with bouquets in shaded silk. The corsage was low, and draped in front. Short sleeves, with double sabots, and a lace scarf. Head-dress, a bandeau of pearls.

The hems on the skirts of dresses, are this year much narrower than they have hitherto been worn.

For the morning promenade, or in-door neglige, printed merino is much employed. The patterns are frequently in various colors, but the majority have black designs on green, blue, red, or orange grounds. These dresses are made high, with double pelerines. — Nov 23.

Dresses at the late Ball at the Tuileries.—At the ball recently given at the Palace of the Tuileries, in honor of her Majesty the Queen of the Belgians, the dresses of the ladies were remarkably elegant. Owing to the unusual mildness of the weather, almost all were of the colors and textures suitable to summer costume. The majority of the ladies wore white. We subjoin a description of a few of the dresses most admired on this occasion.

The young Queen appeared in a very simple and becoming costume. It consisted of a robe of white crape, crossed from the waist to the feet in a bias direction by bouquets of roses. The sleeves ornamented with sabots of blonde. Head dress, a wreath of roses. — Very few jewels.

Princesses Clementine wore a dress like her Majesty's, but the bouquets were of different flowers. Her hair, which was arranged in bandeaux Feroniere, was ornamented with bouquets. A small bandeau diadem on the forehead.

Madame L. wore a white dress. The corsage en chertique edged round the top with a row of diamonds. The jupe open in front, and fastened to the petticoat with bows and diamond clasps. Her head-dress consisted of a sort of crown of diamonds, which completely encircled the coiffure. No necklace.

Several ladies wore dresses of white blonde. Some wore their hair in flabandeaux. Flowers were very general; very few feathers were seen. Manteaux of gold, with ornaments of precious stones in the centre.

Two young ladies who were dressed precisely alike attracted particular admiration. They wore robes of white pou de soie, embroidered in boss silk; a wreath of jacinth and foliage formed a Mathie on the whole length of the skirt. The body and sleeves were embroidered to correspond; but the pattern was smaller. Mantillas and sabots of white blonde. Wreaths of jacinth in the hair. One wore a parure of tortoise set in plain gold; the other a parure of rubies set in wrought gold.

Another very elegant toilette consisted of a robe of white crape embroidered with a wreath in silk and gold. Small bouquets scattered over the jupe. In the hair a wreath of small daisies with gold buds. A parure of fantasie of diamonds mounted in gold.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1834.

Imprisonment for Debt.—In a Government where the greatest precautions upon the nice point of personal liberty are required, where the most formidable barriers should be erected, to prevent the insidious encroachment, or the open attacks of power, we believe that there can be but few, who upon reflection, will remain wholly indifferent to the subject before us. For obvious reasons, we have at this time thrown out a few hasty, crude ideas in relation to imprisonment of the person for debt. We repeat that this question is one which alike concerns the rich and the poor. The vicissitudes of human condition, the fluctuations of trade, the alternations of prosperity and adversity admonish us in a language not to be misunderstood, that the occupant of the splendid mansion, and the humble cottage, have been, and may again be, the suffering victims of this inhuman, barbarous, impolitic legislation. Shall we suffer this law, which visits punishment on the unfortunate and innocent, to remain on our Statute Book, or shall we lop it off as a gangrenous excrescence? Shall we suffer an evil to continue, because we fear a worse? Nothing noble or useful, was ever accomplished under the instruction of fear. It is a grovelling, slavish attribute of human nature, and should influence the conduct and actions of those only who grope their way in the darkness of ignorance. It is unworthy of enlightened freemen. Worthy only of the iron sway of Asiatic despotism. What evil consequences can be reasonably apprehended from an alteration of the law? By a wise and cautious legislation, the security of the creditor can be preserved, without oppression to the debtor. Let us hazard the experiment. The test of one year's experience will satisfy us of the expediency or necessity of the change. Disinterestedly and dispassionately viewing the subject, we cannot resist the conviction that a reformation of the law will be productive of results both favorable to the stability of private credit, and the permanency of public liberty. In advocating a modification of the existing statute, we are impressed with the belief that we do not lead, but follow, in the wake of public sentiment, prompted by the dictates of the most sensitive humanity. Public virtue and public happiness are intimately connected, and closely blended. Imprisonment engenders moral depravation, chills all the finer feelings, which make us cling to our civil and social institutions, and weakens or destroys the great props of society. That profound and sublime author, whose study it was to consider mankind, to lay down first principles, and to apply those principles to particular cases, speaking of the cruelty of laws in respect to debtors in a Republic, and of the power which a creditor has over the debtor, by the mere obligation incurred, asks, what must be the consequence if the laws of a Republic make a further addition to this servitude and subjection. He appeals to the history of the ancient Governments. At Athens and Rome, it was at first permitted to sell such debtors as were insolvent. Solon redressed this abuse at Athens by ordaining that no man's body should answer for civil debts. But the Decemvirs did not reform the same custom at Rome; and though they had Solon's regulation before their eyes, they did not choose to follow it. This, says our author, is not the only passage of the Twelve Tables, in which the Decemvirs show their design of checking the spirit of democracy. Often did their cruel laws against debtors, throw the Roman Republic into danger. Although the internal causes which affect and frequently control the destinies of States, are infinitely various and uncertain; and although a combination of apparently the same causes, may at different times, by the operation of salutary checks, be productive of different results, yet the parallel of history is somewhat instructive, and the similitude not without force.

But we need not go so far into antiquity, to draw arguments in favor of a reform in the law. To silence the clamours of those who are opposed to such reform, we have only to cross the water, and hold up to their distorted vision the cumbrous system of English jurisprudence, which has oppressed the people of that country for centuries. Our limits forbid us, at this time, to expose the grievances and defects of that system, and we defer it for future consideration.

Fire.—About half past 7 o'clock, yesterday morning, a fire broke out in a three story wooden building corner of Church street and Madison place, occupied by Prince & Dillaway as a carpenter's shop, which with a large quantity of lumber, was entirely consumed, together with a ten foot building on the east. Mr Lewis saved all his tools, and the greater part of his stock. Messrs P. & D. and Mr L. were insured at the Fireman's Office. The fire communicated on the west to a block of brick buildings in Madison place, two of which were considerably damaged on the roof and front. The fire originated in the second story of Prince & Dillaway's shop, by sparks snapping from the stove into the shavings.

The powder house on Summit Hill, Munch Chunk, (Pa.) containing between two and three hundred kegs of powder, was blown up with a terrible explosion on Thursday morning, 23d inst., just as the workmen were on their way to commence their daily labor. The shock was so violent as to shake the houses like an earthquake at the distance of half a mile, and several windows were broken. Circumstances are such as leave no doubt that it was the work of an incendiary.

The gentlemen whom we mentioned yesterday, as having left the city to settle a misunderstanding, selected their ground in Dedham. One of the party took ground yesterday morning; the other was arrested by the Sheriff of this county and put under bonds.

Short Memory.—The Daily Advertiser of yesterday says—

"The Morning Post, in alluding to the investigation proposed in the legislature respecting the Banks of this state, asks, 'why was the wicked and unfounded insinuation thrown out in the Daily Advertiser, that the bills of the Commonwealth and Merchants Banks would be valueless upon the conclusion of this investigation?' To those who have regularly read this paper it is unnecessary to say that there has been no such insinuation thrown out. There has never been any intimation in this paper that the credit of those banks is not as good as that of any bank in this city, nor have we ever doubted that their bills are as good and as safe as those of any other bank. The charge against us therefore, is entirely unfounded."

It does not follow, however, that if we have entire confidence in the solvency of the banks in this city, and the security of the public money deposited therein, that we consider those funds, scattered as they are, or will be, in thirty or forty local banks, in all parts of the country, as safely deposited, as if they remained in the custody of the Bank of the United States."

Now if the Editors of the Daily will refer to their paper of the 17th, they will find the following—

"As an evidence of this, an attempt was some time since made to circulate the bills of one of the government Washington Banks in the State of Maine, and as I have been informed, they could not be sold better than at a discount of 12 1-2 per cent. which is, I apprehend, somewhat more than some of the government bank bills of this state will command, after the legislative inspection now in contemplation, shall have been concluded."

If this be not an insinuation of the nature we stated, will the Editors of the Daily be so kind as to say what it does mean. Nay, even in the article of yesterday, there is an insinuation against the solvency of the Government Banks in the Daily Advertiser, and another in the Boston Atlas.

It is not one month since the Atlas impliedly rebuked Mr Webster for not sustaining Mr Clay more promptly and decidedly; now the worm crawls behind his shield—We care as little what the Atlas pronounces false, as what it pronounces true, for whoever knows the Atlas knows that it is rarely able to pronounce correctly.

The Atlas asks if Reuben M. Whitney was not "engaged in supplying the armies of Great Britain with stores and munitions during the war?" We suspect not; for the Connecticut blue lights, to whom the editor of the Atlas belongs, monopolized that business.

The Bankites are in despair.—they are alarmed at the apathy manifested by the great body of the people about their distressing condition. They attempt to cajole and flatter the public one day, and to intimidate it the next. The Bank agents prick their editors, and the editors attempt to prick the people, but they only goad their masters. The merchants of Boston, the Atlas compares to SLAVES afraid—"yes AFRAID," says the Atlas, "to express their real sentiments on political affairs!" Is this a specimen of the respect the Atlas feels for the merchants of Boston?

A question of "Adjourned veracity." The Boston Atlas, that pattern of decency and candor, states on the authority of the Mercantile Journal, that NINE failures have recently taken place in New Bedford. Mr Webster, in presenting the "fac simile" memorial from that town, says that between thirty and forty houses have failed. We leave it to the Atlas to settle the discrepancy.

We shall not attempt to convince the opposition that there is a difference between patronage and patriotism—as with them the latter is too truly the child of the former.—They never knew the latter, distinct from the former, in practice—and it would be unreasonable to expect them to acknowledge it in theory. Is the Lowell Journal answered?

Anecdote.—A lady of this city told her little servant girl to look at the vane upon a steeple near her house and see which way the wind was. The vane had been taken down for the purpose of repairing it; but the little girl obeyed her mistress, and beholding nothing but the rod upon which she had been accustomed to see the vane, told her mistress that "the wind was right up and down."

Large Verdict.—In the case of John Randel Jr. against the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Company, lately tried at New Castle, (Del.) the Jury, after four days deliberation, came into court the 25th instant, awarding to the plaintiff the large sum of two hundred and twenty-six thousand, three hundred and eighty-five dollars damages.

Mr Ephraim Howard, of North Bridgewater, had his pocket book, containing $180, and some valuable papers, stolen from his coat pocket at the City Tavern yesterday morning. The coat was hanging in the wash room, in which Mr H. was washing himself.

It is stated that six thousand persons are employed at this time in cutting timber in the woods of the State of Maine.

The Philadelphia Inquirer has nominated Gen Lafayette as a candidate for the Presidency—he is ineligible, agreeably to the constitution, but then the Inquirer doesn't mind that.

Old Times.—Our neighbor of the Courier must have been fond of playing the grave-digger in his younger days, for he is constantly harping upon tombs and sepulchres.

The new Tragedy of Camillus, written by Mr J. B. Phillips, of New York, was performed at the Bowers on Monday evening.

Mr Flint, the Editor of the New York Knickerbocker, has withdrawn from the charge of that Magazine. Who comes next?

The Albany Daily Advertiser appears to be in trouble about our Washington Correspondent. "Take physic, Pomp."

The 17th Feb. is appointed for the election of a Representative to Congress, in the place of Gov. Davis.

POLICE COURT.

Harry Earrings was arraigned upon the complaint of the fair and distinguished Mary Ann Smith, more commonly known, for the last 15 years, by the pet name of Posey. It appeared from Posey's statement, which was confirmed by another young lady, as frail, if not as fair, as herself, that as she was ascending towards the third tier, on Friday evening, Harry throttled her and threatened to knock her into the middle of next week. The counsel for the fair complainant, stated that the defendant's conduct was generally of a riotous character. To this young Harry promptly replied—"I believe my character stands as fair as that of the young lady." To which the counsel as tartly retorted—"I am very sorry for you, if it don't stand any fairer." To aggravate the defendant's guilt, she said that he had assaulted her before, but as she "did not like to come before the court, she passed it over." It is certainly not very pleasant to go to Court, fee a lawyer, and then receive such a left handed compliment, in return. Harry had nothing to say for himself, but gave bonds "to keep the peace towards all the good people of this Commonwealth, and especially Mary Ann Smith."

Ann M'Nery, a matronly looking termagant—a perfect Meg Merrilies—bedight with snuff, and attired in full mourning, went into Mr Hyman Brunswick's furniture shop, with the pretence of buying a trunk. After higgling round a good deal, she contrived to secrete a calico covering of a chair. When charged with the theft, she as secretly tried to dispossess herself of the rag, and made quite a clamour, to think any one could suspect of her such a thing. She found the court as incredulous of her honesty as the dealer, and was fined $1.00, and costs, and informed that she must pay it, or go to jail. "Me! go to jail! Did ye ever hear the like of that. Why, the other night, I was robbed of all my wearing apparel, but I could get no satisfaction. I have got a dollar, but I will part with my life, before I'll give it up."—Committed.

A new idea.—Matthew Lafield called at the house of Dr —, two or three times, to inquire for some fictitious individual, whom he pretended lived in the Doctor's vicinity. On his last call, like a gentleman, he pulled off his cap, when the doctor undertook to answer his inquiries, and upon retiring, coolly clapped on the doctor's hat, which he had taken down. After his departure, the doctor soon found, like the Quaker, that he had "lost his new hat." Yesterday forenoon, in the street, however, he discovered his beaver, on Mat's cap, and calling upon a handcartman, for assistance, succeeded in detaining and placing him in the custody of constable Holden. The particulars will be further inquired into at the next term of the Municipal Court.

Boston, Jan. 30, 1834.

Hon. David Henshaw, Collector, &c.

State Statistics.—The Insane.—Ex-Governor Lincoln's statement of the condition of the State Lunatic Asylum is highly encouraging, considering that the Institution has been in operation but a year. There have been 163 patients—mostly old and severe cases—and of course there has not been yet time enough to try the full influence of curative means upon them. Those old cases of one or more years standing which were received at the Hospital previous to the first of September last, amounted to thirty-eight; eleven have been discharged cured, and two improved, and twelve remain improved. Of forty-eight recent cases, the period of which has not exceeded one year, fourteen have been discharged cured, five discharged much improved, fifteen remain improved, and fourteen are stationary, eleven of which were admitted within the last four preceding weeks.

The State Prison has given, the last year, an income of $6,995.57—greater than ever before. In 1832 it was $4,192.32, previous to which the balance had been against the State, and in 1828 that balance was as high as $12,167.

Militia.—A Return made by the Adjutant General gives the strength of the Militia, as exhibited in the aggregate of the Muster Rolls of the last year, at 44,937.

The Hospital is found to have cost $50,437—exceeding by $437 the Legislative provision. The expense since it went into operation in December last, is $12,272.91, of which has been reimbursed from the property of the patients, or by their friends, or towns liable, $2,202.75, while a much larger amount is due from charges yet outstanding.

Of the Lands in Maine, over 76,000 acres have been sold, for $63,945.16. The State still owns about three millions of acres, of which the future value is said to be "altogether incalculable."—Merc. Journal.

Mysterious.—Late on Sunday evening, a lady in Brounfield street, hearing some heavy object strike the ground near by, proceeded to her window, from whence she discovered a man lying under the eaves of an opposite two story building, and heard him uttering distressing groans. She opened the window and said she would call the watch, but he immediately picked himself up and was among the missing. On examining the roof of the above building the next morning, a man's tracks were discovered in the snow, and likewise the tracks left by some object in sliding off, from which it was concluded that the man must have fallen from the roof. How he came there, what his object was, or whether he had gone, no one could divine.—Advocate.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Thursday, Jan. 30.—In the Senate, no business of interest was transacted. Mr Kimball, of Essex, was qualified and took his seat. Sundry Memorials from Marshpee Indians were committed.

In the House, bills passed to be engrossed—to inc. Boston Chem. Fr. Co.—making further provision for survivorship in civil action—to inc. Fuller Academy—to establish Fire Department in New Bedford—in addition to an act to inc. Roxbury India Rubber Factory—all which originated in the House.

The House having proceeded to the order of the day, the bill concerning unlawful oaths passed to a third reading by a vote of 437 to 37.

Ordered, on motion of Mr Allen, of Worcester, that the Committee on the investigation of Masonry report forthwith on the expediency thereof.

Meeting-house burnt.—We regret to learn that the new Congregational meeting-house in Foxcroft, built and completely finished the last summer, and having a bell, was consumed by fire on Thursday. The County Conference of Churches were holding a meeting at the time, and the afternoon services had just commenced when the house was discovered to be on fire in the entry, near the stove, from which it caught through the plastering. A bucket of water would have extinguished the fire when first discovered, but as no water was at hand, the doors were opened to procure snow, which let in the North-west wind and soon spread the flames in every direction, baffling the most strenuous efforts to save the building, which soon was prostrated in ashes. The bell was melted. The burning kinders were carried by the wind across the river to Dover, setting fire to a large barn, which was soon communicated to the adjacent dwelling house and out buildings and all were soon burnt to the ground.—Bangor Rep.

Attempt to Kill.—Henry Keller, a German, was brought up at the Police Office, on Saturday morning, at the discharge of the watch, accused of stabbing a young man of the name of John H. Campbell, the keeper of a victualling cellar at the corner of Broome street and the Bowery. About 1 o'clock in the morning Keller entered Campbell's cellar, and called for refreshments for which he refused to pay. Some altercation ensued, when Keller drew a knife from his pocket and inflicted a dangerous wound upon Campbell. He was committed to prison to answer to the charge, being unable to find bail to the amount required by the magistrate.—N. Y. Standard.

Forgery.—A few days since a person deposited in the Bank of Virginia, at Richmond, $96, and requested a check for it on the Branch at Fredericksburg. This was given him, which he altered to $9,600, presented it, and was paid? The perpetrator has been traced as far as Baltimore. It is believed that a portion has been exchanged.

A Cold Morning.—The Thermometer 10 degrees below 0—a keen, north-west wind—the outlines of the smoke curling up from the chimneys distinctly marked in the air—red noses—watery eyes—cold toes—furs in great demand. Put that an' that together, as the Scotchman said, and you have some idea of the weather in Bangor, in the month of January.—Bangor Cour.

G. W. Dixon, who flourished here some years' ago, as a Buffo Singer, is about giving lectures on vocal music, at Harrisburg, (Penn.) It is said, he is as much acquainted with the subject as the untutored child of the forest. The papers are quite "wrathy" on the subject, and remark, he has impudence enough to attempt anything but honesty.

The Pittsburgh Democrat says—"On Sunday the rivers Alleghany and Monongahela rose to the unusual height of 22 feet above low water mark—wanting 11 feet of the great flood nearly two years since."

Quebec, Jan. 15.—The thermometer fell this morning nine degrees below zero. This was the most intense cold experienced this year.

Epigram on a man of the name of Treble being apprehended for picking pockets:

Has long time held the tenor of his way;
If this be true, and can be proved the case,
Then the said Treble has been through Bass.

Dipping in Salt Water, for the prevention of Hydrophobia.—On Saturday last a man and his wife arrived at Fauntton-on-Seven, accompanied by their dog, a donkey and a goose and two hens! the whole of the party having travelled from Warwickshire for the purpose of being dipped in salt water, to escape the dreadful effects of the scratches or bites of a mad cat.—Bristol Gaz.

POSTSCRIPT.

By Last Night's Mail.

The Southern Mail arrived last evening about 11 o'clock, by which we received the following:—

From the N. Y. Jour. of Commerce.

TWO DAYS LATER.

A Savannah paper of January 21st, brought by the schooner Exact, contains London dates to November 27th, and Liverpool to the 29th inclusive.

Marshal Jourdan died in Paris on the 23d of Nov. at the age of 81.

The Indicateur de Bordeaux states that St Sebastian has been declared a free port, and that provisions are abundant in that town, brought there by French vessels.

Several arrests have taken place at Madrid amongst the clergy.

London, Nov. 27.—The French papers of Sunday (24th) are upon the whole confirmatory of the success claimed for the Queen's forces in Spain.

Letters received from Rome state that the rumored intention of Austria, to sanction or create an Italian Confederation, had so alarmed the French Cabinet as to elicit from it a notification to the Holy See, that in such an event the French Government would deem it expedient to increase the number of its troops in Ancona, and occupy Civita Vecchia. Great Britain, it is also stated, has acquiesced in the policy of this menacing proceeding.

German papers have also been received of the 21st of Nov. They are filled with allusions to passing occurrences in other parts of Europe, and particularly in Spain.

Bayonne, Nov. 19.—Gen Sarsfield left Burgos on the 11th, and defeated Merino on the 12th at Belorado. The Insurgents are said to have had 600 men killed or taken prisoners. They then retreated with their chief on Vittoria. Sarsfield was on the 14th, at Ameluz, waiting to hear the result of General Wall's movement on Bilbao, through Espinosa, and what progress General Lorenzo had made towards Vittoria, in the direction of Santa Cruz de Campero. Wall had about 2000 men, including 500 cavalry, and Lorenzo's brigade had been reinforced by two battalions detached from Sarsfield's corps.

M. Aguado has been appointed Minister of Finance by the Queen Regent, in the room of M. Martinez.

Don Carlos still continues at Castelo Branco, in Portugal. He has procured, in England, a loan of two millions of reals, or about £20,000.

The ship Carroll of Carrollton, from New York, lately arrived at Liverpool, with 171 steerage passengers.

It was reported in England that the Marquis of Sligo was to go out as Governor of Jamaica.

Haere, Nov. 24.—We have had several cargoes of cotton come in within the last day or two, and the demand is languid. The manufacturers are represented as being in full activity, but the dealers do not appear disposed to purchase any quantity at present rates.

SALES 23d Nov.—134 bales Louisiana Cotton at 105 a 122 50; 60 Georgia old at 107; 43 do new at 115; 346 bags Laguayra Coffee, at 78f in bond.

CONGRESS.

Monday, Jan. 27.—In the Senate.—Mr Tipton agreeably to notice, introduced a bill to enable the inhabitants of Michigan Territory to frame a constitution preparatory to their admission into the Union, which was read and referred to a select committee of five. The Vice President here announced the special order to be the motion of Mr Calhoun for the repeal of the Force Bill. Mr C. not feeling disposed to interrupt the debate now in progress on the removal of the deposits, declined calling it up, but intimated that he should do so this day two weeks. Mr Silsbee presented the memorial of sundry citizens of Boston, praying the establishment by Government of Marine Seminaries; which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.—The Vice President then announced the special order of the day to be the Removal of the Deposites. Mr Forsyth rose and addressed the Senate until the usual hour of adjournment; when, without concluding, he gave way to a motion for adjournment.

In the House of Representatives, Mr Polk, from the committee to confer on the disagreement of the House, to the amendment proposed by the Senate to the bill, commonly called the House appropriation bill, reported that the committee had unanimously agreed to strike out that part after the 16th section of the bill, and proposing for adoption, in lieu thereof, in substance, viz: that neither House shall subscribe or purchase any books, &c. in future, unless an appropriation shall be specially made for that purpose; that 5000 dollars additional, shall be appropriated to the joint library of Congress, and that all books and printing, heretofore ordered by either House, shall be paid for out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated. Mr P. having moved to refer the report to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union—the House went into Committee, and after debate, concurred in the amendment, 88 to 7.

IRON SAFES.—S. A. & W. G. PIERCE, Agents

for selling Gaylor's Patent Double Fire Proof Wrought Iron Chests and Safes, 270 Washington street, have now on hand a large assortment comprising all the sizes and kinds which are calculated for the use of Banks, Insurance Offices, Town Records, Merchants, and others.

The above Chests are double throughout in all their parts, with double doors, closed with Chubb's Patent Detector Locks, which cannot be picked or the Chest is as completely Fire Proof as any vault or chest can be made. Proof of which can be seen by those who will take the trouble to call at the Agents' Store and examine a Double Chest which has passed through a very severe fire, and preserved a valuable lot of books and papers, belonging to John S. Abbott, Esq., whose name is attached to the following certificate:

"This is to certify, that one of the above described Double Safes, which I purchased of the Messrs S. A. & W. G. Pierce, was in my office in this town when the office was burned on the 2d day of November last—the building was of two stories, wooden, and large. The safe weighing 700 lbs, was placed in the second story, into the cellar, and was exposed to an intense heat for nearly three hours. It was for a long time literally red hot. It contained all the account books, notes, and court papers, that were in my office; and no paper was in the least degree burnt or rendered illegible."

JOHN S. ABBOTT.

Thomson, January 9th, 1834.

The above Chest, and some of the papers which were in it at the time of the fire, are now at the Agent's Store, corner of Essex and Washington streets, and any individual or corporation who are about purchasing Iron Safes for the protection of their books and papers, and they will for their advantage to call and examine them, and they will be perfectly satisfied that Gaylor's Double Safes are what they are represented to be—FIRE PROOF; and they will be still further satisfied that none other but the Double Safe would stand a severe fire.

Gaylor's Double Safes are a patent article, and can only be legally purchased in this city of S. A. & W. G. PIERCE, who are his authorized Agents. Jan 31
